HomeLife, Inc.

If you are working on your degree, or have already graduated and seeking practical training and work experience to complement your education, HomeLife, Inc. is a good place to start!

As part of your work experience, HomeLife offers classroom training in physical intervention skills, safety, leadership, customer service, and other clinical topics related to neurological impairment and mental illness. In addition, HomeLife has a structured on-the-job (OJT) training program that provides written documentation of your progress, training, and experience. This documentation can be added to your resume to help you advance in your career. HomeLife is committed to performance excellence and employee development. To learn more about HomeLife or to apply for a position, see our web site at www.talkhome.net or give us a call at (269)373-8815.
